March 2018

Welcome to the Little Roos Marlow Newsletter

What an exciting month it's been! Full of learning and fun.

We would like to thank you for being patient and understanding whilst we make the room changes with the Little Explorers (toddler) and Big Kangas (pre-school) room. We are pleased to announce the new setup is working very well.

We would also like to thank you for the children's amazing outfits on World Book Day and for the parents that came to the nursery during the week to read to the children. On one occasion the children were read to in German and they were intrigued. We wish you all a fantastic egg-tastic Easter holiday!

Improvements Plan Updates:

- Letter and Sounds phonics scheme is beginning to embed in the children's learning and to further supplement our teaching. We have even more training organised for staff and for parents. Watch this space.

- Marlow has an Open Day on Sat 28th April 2-5pm. Please help us spread the word. We currently have some special offers for those that register in April.

Little Wallabies have been learning to count numbers in various ways within our environment, i.e. counting mini beasts, how many cups of water make up jug; sorting objects and singing number songs. Please try to continue this at home.

Little Explorers have been getting used to our registration board finding their names. The children have been extending their communication skills reflecting on real life experiences i.e. people we love for mother's day and Sports Relief events.

Big Kangas have been focusing on different mathematical activities. They have been learning about properties of different 2D shapes and will be moving onto 3D. As the holiday season has started the children have been talking about where they are going on holiday. We have a holiday map so the children can learn about where the different countries they are visiting are located on the map*.
